[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN]

The Louisiana Investigation.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb 4. Before the congressional committee T W Abry witness for Conservatives read a written statement in regard to the Coushatta affair denied that the prosperity of Coushatta was due to northern men settlement was more prosperous before they came than after. His account of the arrest of the six men and subsequent massacre did not differ from accounts heretofore published in Shreveport and New Orleans papers.

CHICAGO Feb 4—The Tribune's Washington special says official information received from New Orleans says the congressional committee entirely agree with Foster of the sub-committee on the question of the returning board.

The Emma Mine [illegible] Suit for $5,000,000 Damages.

NEW YORK Feb 4—The full text of the published complaint [illegible] Emma Silver Mining Company Limited, against Trenor W Park, Baxter and Senator Stewart suing for $5,000,000 damages for alleged fraudulent representations of the value of the Emma mine are received. The complaint charges willfully false statements of such value based on a mendacious report by Professor Benjamin Silliman for which the latter was to receive a fee of $5,000, with [illegible] addition contingent upon the sale of the property. Baxter is a Wall street operator associated with Stockwell in the Pacific Mail direction. Among the [illegible] charges is that of willful concealment of facts. One recites that in July or August, 1871 an expert employed by the defendants [illegible] Park and Baxter that one [illegible] the mine would soon be found to thin down in length and depth. CHINA.

The Succession to the Throne of China.

SHANGHAI Feb. 4—A proclamation has been issued stating that the question of successor to the throne is settled.

Mr John H. Jones, who has just completed a grist-mill in the Ringo neighborhood had the misfortune to have it washed away last Tuesday night, by the breaking of the dam. The loss sustained by Mr. Jones is about $500, which is severe upon him.

The boy Rowland accidentally shot by a playmate last Tuesday escaped without serious hurt after all. Another proof that Colt's revolvers are superior to Allen's.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Logan from the committee on military affairs reported back the House bill to provide relief for grasshopper sufferers.

Morton moved that the Senate proceed to the consideration of joint resolution to repeal the 22d joint rule of the two houses of Congress. Agreed to—31 to 18.

Morton said the existence of the rule subjected the country to great danger. He offered the following as substitute for the motion to repeal. No objection to the reception and counting of any electoral vote or votes from any state shall be valid unless such objection is sustained by the affirmative vote of the two houses.

Thurman moved the resolution be referred to committee on privileges and elections that it might be perfected. Agreed. Adjourned.

In the House Lynch defended his actions as Republican member in voting steady against the motion to suspend rules so as to adopt the new rule by which the civil rights bill could be passed. He declared himself a strict Republican but he opposed the civil rights bill in accordance with the views of the people of his district. He was defeated for Congress in 1874 although receiving within fifty of the entire colored vote of his district because at the last moment a rumor was circulated that under the party lash he [illegible] his honest conviction and support the civil rights bill. The Republican party in forcing this bill was attempting to do by legislation what was never done by legislation—to correct and cure prejudice.

E. R. Hoar advocated the bill not for any immediate effect for good it might have but the value of the act was similar to that of the Declaration of Independence.

Stanard of Missouri opposed the bill because he did not believe it was for the interest of either the colored or white people but would work incalculable damage.

Cain (colored) advocated the bill and said colored people had control of the whole school system of South Carolina yet had not mixed schools in the State except in the State College. Secure to us, he said our liberty give us a chance to live put no restriction on us and we ask no more of the American people. Chittenden Caldwell and Eldridge opposed the bill the latter declaring it was only for the benefit of unprincipled carpet baggers and scallawags who would make merchandise of the colored race and their bodies and souls if thereby they could keep themselves in power and place.

Brown of Kentucky opposed the bill declaring its [illegible] had been in a measure accomplished by daring and revolutionary invasions on the time-honored rules of the House. It has been born in malignity would be passed in defiance and violation of the Constitution and executed he feared in violence and bloodshed.

Hale of New York objected to the last sentence but the speaker ruled it within the limits of parliamentary debate.

Proceeding with his speech he referred to the Louisiana troubles, brought about by conspiracy between the attorney general and Kellogg and a corrupt federal judge and spoke of Sheridan's banditti dispatch adding, we have heard it said elsewhere that they were thieves and murderers and night riders. Now what should be said if that accusation should come from one—I speak not of men but in language within the rules of this House—if that accusation against that people come from one who is outlawed in his own home from respectable society whose name is synonymous with falsehood, who is champion and has been such on all occasions of fraud who is the apologist of thieves who is such a prodigy of vice and meanness that to describe him imagination would sicken and invective would exhaust itself. In Scotland once there was a man whose trade was to murder and he earned his livelihood by selling the bodies of his victims for gold. He linked his name to his crime and to-day throughout the world it is known as Burking.

Speaker—Does the chair understand the gentleman to be referring in this language to a member of the House?

Mr Brown—No sir, I am describing a character who is in my mind's eye.

Mr Speaker—The chair understood the gentleman to refer to a member of this House.

Mr Brown—No sir. I call no names. This man's name was linked to his crime and to-day throughout the world it's known as Burking. If I was desirous of expressing all that was pusillanimous in war inhuman in peace forbidden in moral and infamous in politics, I should call it Butlerism. [Sensation.]

Mr Speaker—(Interrupting)—The gentleman did not deal in good faith with the chair.

—Mr Hale (N. Y.) demanded that Brown's language be reduced to writing and read from the clerk's desk and while the reporter was transcribing it the excitement was at red heat.

The speaker remarked further that he was not paying close attention to the gentleman's language and had addressed him an inquiry which had been answered either denying it or evasively the chair couldn't tell which. It would be inexcusable in the chair to have permitted such language and his exculpation [illegible] on the evasion of the gentleman from Kentucky.

The report of Mr Brown's objectionable language being read Mr Hale of New York offered a resolution declaring that by the use of language as well as by the prevarication by which he was enabled to continue its utterance Mr Brown has been guilty of a violation of the privileges of the House and merited the severest censure of the house and that he be brought before the bar in custody by the sergeant at arms and publicly censured by the speaker.

Dawes offered a substitute providing for Brown's expulsion but Hale declined to yield and moved the previous question.

Cox to Hale—You cannot force this thing in the House. There has been provocation for what the gentleman from Kentucky said.

The House refused to second the previous question and Dawes then expressed regret at what he deemed the necessity of offering the resolution and asked whether Brown desired to speak now.

Brown rising and speaking with great deliberation said this was the first time that evasion or prevarication was ever attributed to him. He had always spoken in plain terms, susceptible of no misunderstanding and he was willing to stand by the record.

Dawes asked him if he desired to say anything in regard to the character of the language he used.

Brown—I stand by the record. [Sensation.]

Here a somewhat exciting episode occurred between Hoar and Lamar arising from a misunderstanding of an expression of the former by the latter and ending in an explanation and apology by Lamar.

Dawes said as it was evident the Democrats would not vote for his resolution he would withdraw it.

Cox moved to table Hale's resolution. Rejected. Yeas 82, nays 167. The resolution was then adopted by a vote of 182 to 79.

[illegible], who had sat quietly through all then asked leave to make a personal explanation. Speaking of his eighteen years' service in the House, he said that in all that time no one could accuse him of ever beginning a personal attack on any man or of having went out of his way to say an unkind word of any man unless first attacked and he also endeavored when attacked never to leave a man until he was sorry he did it.

The [illegible] then [illegible] led Brown to the bar of the House and the speaker administered a dignified but severe censure.

Brown then said he intended no prevarication or evasion in reply to the speaker and no disrespect to the House.

House then took a recess till 10 A. M. to-morrow.

THE TILTON-BEECHER CASE.

[BY TELEGRAPH]

NEW YORK Feb 4.—In the Beecher case to-day Evarts continued the cross examination of Tilton the principal points being with reference to his free love doctrines as shown in his published article Love Marriage and Divorce and others which were put in evidence. There was a long discussion between counsel as to the admission in evidence of articles from the Golden Age not written or sanctioned by Tilton. The court ruled that only such articles as were written by him or sanctioned by him could be admitted. Among articles sought to be introduced was one which Tilton disavowed knowledge of until after publication which he did not sanction and which he said was written by a member of Plymouth church. Recess.

After recess Tilton's cross examination was continued. He identified the biography of Mrs Woodhull which Evarts wanted to put in evidence but the court ruled it out and Evarts took exception. He was then cross examined closely at length in reference to his friendship for Beecher when it began and when and why he changed his estimate of him. Tilton testified to his early affection and admiration for Beecher beginning when he (witness) was a boy of 16 or 17 but gradually modifying and changing as he grew older and had experience and acquaintance with the world and men illustrating by saying he ranked Sumner and Greeley above Beecher in everything. He testified to his close intimacy with Beecher to inviting him to visit his house because his society was a pleasure and he always wanted to share all pleasures with Elizabeth. Didn't remember ever asking Beecher to visit his house during his absence though might have done so. He was questioned in reference to his friendship for Moulton and replied it had always been very close. There was no man in his esteem who could be trusted as Moulton. [illegible] thought him the successor of Sir Philip Sydney in all that was high and noble. Court adjourned.

In the course of testimony Tilton said he embraced the cause of Woman Suffrage before the war at the solicitation of his wife and under conviction stirred by Beecher's sermons in favor of the cause. Again he said I enlarged my ideas on the subject of divorce at the time Beecher married Mrs McFarland and Mr Richardson. That was an act which at the time I defended.

The Record says there are now in all 13 paupers in Marion county. Three were sent to the East last fall to friends there two of them being old men, respectively 60 and 64 years of age, the third was an old lady of 70. The county poor farm was sold for $1000 last fall to our townsman N. Haas and at the present time the county poor are boarded around among the farmers as the most convenient and economical way of providing for them.

NAPA, Feb 4—Promptly at 9:30 this morning the case of State vs. Muybridge was resumed.

C. H. McCrum was sworn. On the 17th of October witness saw difficulty between Muybridge and Larkyns. Recapitulated facts as testified to already—as to the Major being called out and shot.

James McArthur was sworn. The testimony of this witness was merely cumulative. When going to Calistoga with defendant the latter volunteered information that he came there to kill Larkyns and had arranged his business for fear he might be killed or lynched. Said he had at 10 o'clock that morning intercepted a letter from Larkyns which showed intimacy with his wife.

G. [illegible] Wolf testified that on the 17th day of October he drove Muybridge from Calistoga to the Yellow Jacket mine. On arriving at the mine he asked for Larkyns shot him and chased him into a house at Calistoga. On the next day the prisoner studied half an hour to inform me he was armed. The night before he said he wanted to give Larkyns an unexpected meeting and he would give me $5 if I got him to the mines before Mr Stewart. Cross examined—He urged me to drive madly. I saw the parties at the time of the shooting. Witness repeated the conversation which occurred same words as other witnesses.

The prosecution here rested and the defense asked for a recess for consultation.

After recess Mr King opened for defense claimed that he should prove Larkyns had debauched defendant's wife that Muybridge on the discovery of the fact, was strung up to a pitch of insanity would claim a verdict on the ground both of insanity and of justifiable homicide shall prove that prisoner sustained concussion of the brain years ago and had not been himself since. At the close of the address the court adjourned till 1 o'clock.

THE "COSPATRICK."

FURTHER PARTICULARS OF THE BURNING OF THE ENGLISH EMIGRANT SHIP—THE SUFFERINGS OF THE SURVIVORS.

The London Times gives the following account of the loss of the Cospatrick which is made up from different dispatches received.

The Cospatrick had been sixty seven days at sea when at midnight on the 17th of November the alarm was given that she was on fire. The flames were at first as it appears confined to the fore part of the vessel. Either by the sudden shriveling up of sails and tackle or by the want of nerve of a steersman command was lost over the vessel and she went about—that is, she turned her head round to the wind and the wind blew flame and smoke in upon the ship. From that moment her fate can scarcely have been doubtful. The captain had turned in but he immediately came on deck and attempted to put her before the wind. We are also told that the appliances the ship had for extinguishing the fire were tried in vain. The wind blowing from the bows carried throughout the after part of the vessel. The noise and the pungent smoke must quickly have roused both passengers and crew. The boats in the fore part of the vessel had been set on fire, but there was a rush to the other boats. One which was on the davits hanging over the starboard side, was filled till its stern dipped into the sea and then the boat capsized. The first and the second officer each took charge of one boat, and these boats successfully got off. The boat of Mr Romaine the first mate, contained besides himself six seamen and twenty-five passengers. The names of the members of the crew in her were A Dutton the butcher Nicollo Cunningham Turvey, Risden and Wood. The other boat was under command of Henry MacDonald the second officer and that is said to have contained about the same number of persons. Boats and ship did not part at once. From the boats the men (it is to be observed that the boats are described as containing only men) had the unenviable opportunity of observing, without being able to relieve the confusion which ultimately must have prevailed on board ship. Nearly in their sight. We are not told whether they left the ship before or after the capsizing of the starboard quarter boat. The masts were seen to fall and at last the flames reached the stern and there was an explosion under the poop deck. After the burning of the vessel she remained afloat for two days, and the boats remained by her in the hope, perhaps, of obtaining provisions. Captain Elmslie Mrs Elmslie their son and Dr Cadle are described as surviving the fire and then jumping overboard to escape death from the sinking of the vessel. Dr Cadle is said to have taken the captain's son in his arms before jumping overboard and then it is added that these four persons were all drowned together. It was the 19th before the ship went down. The two boats kept together for two days and then parted company in rough weather. This brings us to the night of the 21st. Of Romaine's boat we now hear nothing more. Of Mr MacDonald's boat we learn that on the 22d they suffered much from thirst, and next day Bentley a Lancashire laborer aged thirty seven who had gone out with his wife and four children fell overboard and was drowned. The disastrous history of the voyage is now and of life prolonged by the most horrible expedient of shipwrecked men. On the 26th before daylight a bark passed close to the boat. She was hailed but no answer came. The 27th was Friday. There were now left in the boat five men—MacDonald second mate Lewis and Hamilton able seamen Cotter ordinary seaman and another. The corpses of their companions had been thrown overboard. Two of the men who remained lost their reason and the others were faint and drowsy. It is said that MacDonald was roused at the moment when their rescuers bore down upon them by one of his companions who had become insane and who bit MacDonald's heel. It had rained that day but they were unable to catch a drop of water. In this state they were found by the British Sceptre an iron sailing ship which left Calcutta and Dundee on the 18th of September a week later than the date the emigrants started from Gravesend. The two who had gone mad died on board. The British Sceptre conveyed MacDonald Cotter and Lewis to St. Helena. There they remained three days and left on the 9th of December by the mail steamer Nyanza as the quickest mode of transit.

A NARRATIVE OF MADNESS AND DEATH

THE RIVER ROAD AGAIN

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

My attention has been called to an article in your weekly issue of January 21st, under the heading of "The River Road." The author of that article has evidently endeavored, by insinuation innuendo and positive statement to represent things contrary to fact. By publishing the following reply to the article you will serve the cause of truth and justice and oblige interested parties.

I shall commence by answering those misrepresentations in a general way. And first in regard to my work on the river road, I have to say that I commenced to work on that road about the first of April and never ceased until the 14th of July, excepting Sundays election day 4th of July and one day I think the hands lost in moving as I changed place and commenced work at Springville. On the 14th of July I received an order from the commissioners court to suspend work on the river road and make a report to this court at its next term.

The order I complied with and work was suspended and not resumed again until the 10th of August when it was commenced, the court designating the part of the road to put the labor on and also the amount to put on which has since been done as fully and faithfully as circumstances would permit. Now, where Vox's statements differ from the above at least so far as working on the road is concerned, they are false. For instance what is stated in the following "Had it not been for the positive interference and orders of the present very efficient board of commissioners nothing could have been done." A statement more at variance with truth could not well be made. (A little soft soap for the commissioners but a club for all other b[illegible].) The fact is at the time of the positive interference there were from fifteen to twenty men at work on that road working at two places and about two thousand dollars had been expended on that road up to that date.

As to what he says in regard to the number of times that I was on the road I will leave that to the men who worked on the road to say as to the correctness of his insinuation. Now he makes quite a discovery the supervisor has "a pet road near home," over which Mr "Vox" makes quite an ado. Queer! Has not he a "pet" of his own or has he only volunteered to feed some body else's "pet."

"A pet road near home that needed its thousands of dollars to macadamize." Just so, Mr Vox it does need money to macadamize or crosslay, as very little of that has been done yet on this road, and the roads south of it in this county are mostly cross laid. Suppose you advocate our getting appropriated to this road, during the [illegible] the amount that it would [illegible], as it will need only a little more than one-half as much as it will take to grade and bridge the three miles on the river road about which you are making so much [illegible], and I will agree to say nothing about how many thousands of dollars will be needed to finish your road, so that if ours was done we might travel "to town and back with ease and comfort." When I say ours I mean all that are interested. A man from Washington county on seeing the article that this is a reply to, remarked that there were five hundred in that county that were interested in the "pet."

What is meant by this "The old board of commissioners never said nay." Nay to what?—get to town and back with ease and comfort!" It was no part of their official business to say nay to it. I would inquire, after that you have found the residence of some half-dozen or so, where do these "people" live that have such imperative" voices that raised "a" dying head." But I forbear further comment on such vagaries and will just here state that if "Vox" wishes the appointment of road supervisor there is one who won't be in his way. For long since I made up my mind that I wouldn't any more notify men to perform their labor on a road and at a distance where there were so many who were opposed to it, and some who took it as a personal insult.

I wish to be indulged however in answering a question at the heading of "Vox's" article where he says "A correspondent wants to know why it is neglected" referring to the river road. I answer because between $4000 and $5000 were expended on that road last year, the funds are about used up, and winter has also set in. A word to Mr "Vox" and I close.

It seems that you skulk behind a Latin name, the English of which is voice. Now be manly the next time you write such an article as I have been replying to and write your whole name in English which will read, "A Lying Voice." WM CORNELL.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

The government invite tenders for the right to maintain a ferry for a term of five years from the south end of Dease Lake to the mouth of Dease Creek, also, for a ferry from the last mentioned point to Thibert Creek.

The Victoria Colonist says that several Campscott Indians are in town. If the government were to arrest three or four of the number some information about the G. S. Wright and her people might be obtained. The Bella Bella chiefs now in town stoutly maintain that several of the unfortunates reached the shore alive and built the hut, and that after the visit of the Campscotts to the hut the whites disappeared.

Captain Jolly of the Fraser sands lightship, arrived in Victoria, January 29th. He reported that on Monday morning during the prevalence of a gale of unparalleled violence from the northwest, the lightship broke from her moorings drifted across the sands and into the gulf where he set the sails of the craft and directed her course to a snug cove of Stuart Island. Captain Cooper agent of the marine and fisheries department sent a steamer to tow the lightship home again.

On Tuesday last Wm Lush keeper of the Park hotel at Beacon hill Victoria appeared before Police Judge Elliott to answer to a summons charging him with selling liquor to an Indian. Lush conducted his own case with singular ability cross questioning the witnesses and pleading in his own behalf with great earnestness. The case was remanded till yesterday at 12 o'clock when he again appeared in court and was fined $100 and costs with the alternative of imprisonment. The prisoner asked till 3 o'clock to raise the money and was liberated on bail. He went out into the street ostensibly to get the money, but repaired immediately to a drug store bought some strychnine took it and died soon after.

Telegrams to the Colonist from Ottawa give the following as the text of the relaxed terms between Canada and the Province in reference to the Canadian Pacific Railroad: 1. That the railway from Esquimalt to Nanaimo shall be commenced as soon as possible and completed with all practicable dispatch. 2. That the surveys on the mainland shall be pushed on with the utmost vigor. 3. That the wagon road and telegraph line shall be immediately constructed. 4. That $2,000,000 a year shall be the minimum expenditure on railway works within the Province from the date at which the surveys are sufficiently completed to enable that amount to be expended on construction. 5. That on or before the 31st December 1890 the railway shall be completed and open for traffic from the Pacific seaboard to a point at the western end of Lake Superior at which it will fall into connection with existing lines of railway through a portion of the United States and also with the navigation on Canadian waters.

An old man named Arraguett residing near Butteville aged 95 years and who has been a resident of the State for about 70 years had his leg broken by being thrown out of a sleigh one day last week. It is probable that the accident will prove fatal owing to the extreme age of the man.

The work of repairing burst pipes etc is going on at Salem Woolen Mills and the looms will be in full operation next week.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY

LETTER OF VICE PRESIDENT WILSON—TEXT OF MR. WILSON'S COMMUNICATION TO THE SPRINGFIELD REPUBLICAN ON THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

The Springfield Republican publishes the following letter on the political situation from the Vice-President of the United States:

WASHINGTON Jan 16 1875.

To the Editor of the Republican: I find in your journal a statement that I agree with you that the Republican party is dead. I beg leave to say I do not agree with the Republican or with any man or any set of men, in the opinion that it is dead or hopelessly defeated. On the contrary I believe that the Republican party has it in its power to recover what it has lost and to elect the next President. In saying this I am not unmindful of the grave questions at issue and which are pressing for solution, of the disasters which have fallen upon it, nor of the hopes, expectations and strength of the Democratic party—a party whose strength and power I have never underrated. I believe it can recover all it has lost, win back its former prestige and still retain its power in the government and I believe this because I believe it to be a necessity of the country. The grand work of liberty and patriotism it has performed imperatively demands that it should continue to guide the policy of the nation. Liberty, law order protection, and civilization cannot afford to have it permanently defeated.

I saw quite as early as any one the perils of the Republican party and more than thirteen months since I warned my political friends of the danger of losing the next House of Representatives. The party has made mistakes, and is now paying the penalty of those mistakes but its ideas principles, and general policies have not been condemned. It has been taught by recent disasters that it is mortal, and if it is wise it will heed those lessons. It would seem that neither selfishness nor stupidity could fail to understand them or could misinterpret their import. If the Republican party now dies, it will die by the hand of the suicide for there is no arm other than its own potent enough to strike it down. It cannot, I think hope to recover its lost prestige and power by a policy of rewards and punishments or by party discipline. There are hundreds of thousands in the Republican party to-day who spurned the bribes and frowns of power, and left the Whig and Democratic parties for the sake of principles deemed by them important and sacred. These men cannot be seduced by the blandishments of power, nor greatly moved by threats of discipline. Mere politicians, who think they can govern by the whip of party discipline, will find that they cannot thus reach or control the thoughtful and independent men who struck the lash from the hand of the slave master.

Nor can we recover what is lost in Massachusetts or in the country by the impertinent intermeddling of office holders in nominations and elections. Office holders should learn from the recent elections that they can serve the Republican party best by performing their official duties with scrupulous fidelity. The people should be left free to manage in their own way, and without official interference, their primary meetings and elections, for rightfully or wrongfully, they have been compelled to believe that there are those holding offices in Massachusetts, in the country and especially in the South. Some of them in important positions, who do not fitly represent the desires and wishes of their localities, and who have not the public confidence. The party burdened by such is not likely to be led to victory by their obtrusive interference, either in Massachusetts or in the country, either North or South.

The disastrous division of the Republican party in 1872, was to me a distressing event. It seemed to me to be the unnecessary separation of comrades who had toiled together for so many years for noble purposes and a glorious cause. I did all I could by remonstrance and appeal to prevent it, and have since sought to reunite what was then so disastrously and unnecessarily broken and I would now throw the doors wide open for the return of those who voted for Mr Greeley in 1872, and earnestly invite them to unite again with their old associates. Indeed, at any moment since that election, I would have pursued a generous and magnanimous policy toward the men who then left us, and now without the loss of a single hour, I would, in all sincerity extend the hand of reconciliation. I would appeal to you sir and to your associates of the press in that unfortunate division to unite with the great party which, with all its errors faults and mistakes has made a glorious record for country freedom and progress. I do not ask you to refrain from criticism, nor to leave unnoticed its mistakes for a party that cannot tolerate that is already in its decadence. There has been and now is a class of men in the South—Douglas Democrats and old line National Whigs—who were dragged into the rebellion but who have very little sympathy with the Democratic party. I have believed and now believe, that these men should be invited to co-operate with the Republican party, and share in its responsibilities and honors. I believe that peace in the South, the blotting out of divisions on the line of race, the advancement of real construction permanent Southern prosperity, and the success of the Republican party demand that all honorable efforts should be made to withdraw such men from association with those who led them into rebellion brought such fearful and indescribable ruin upon them and who still adhere to the lost cause.

It seems to me that Republicans everywhere in office and out of office, should subordinate all personal desires, aspirations and ambitions sacrifice their interests, if need be, rally again for the party, invite everybody to crowd its ranks, and bring to the front to the important positions of the government, all the experience ability and character they can command. A broad wise and magnanimous policy should be promptly inaugurated, and steadily and honestly pursued. When the country clearly sees, as it will see the only alternative presented the real issues involved the policies and men to be supported their record in the past and their present affiliations, who and what shall prevail if the Republican party be set aside? When the country sees where the loyal men of the land are found, and where they stand who believe in the perfect equality of the races and who come victory or defeat, life or death mean to maintain in its completeness the equal rights of American citizens of every race nationality and faith then will the Republican masses rally again achieve new victories and give the party a new lease of power. Truly yours, (Signed.) HENRY WILSON.

A TEN THOUSAND DOLLAR DAUGHTER.—On a certain day on a Pennsylvania railroad a belle of a thriving Pennsylvania town, the daughter of a wealthy lumber merchant was traveling in the same car with a shrewd old citizen of her native town and an agreeable gentleman from the West, who tells the story. The latter had been talking to the belle but as the night drew on and the young lady grew drowsy he gave up his seat to her and placed himself beside the somewhat cynical Pennsylvanian. The latter began conversation by pointing to a high mountain past which they were whirling, and said "You see that mountain? Six or eight years ago it was covered with as fine a forest as ever grew, and worth $10,000 and upward. Now without a tree covered with stumps, the land is scarcely worth a continental. The net produce of that mountain lies over there in that seat," and he pointed to the recumbent belle, "that is my calculation. It has just absorbed all of that lumber, which her father owned, to raise and educate, pay for her clothes and jewelry, bring her out in society, and maintain her there. Some of you young men, if you were given your choice between the mountain yonder, as it now stands, and the net produce on that seat, would take the net produce. But as for me give me the stumps."

LETTER FROM ALBANY

THE FARMERS OF LINN—KEEP OUT OF DEBT—GOOD HABITS AND INDUSTRY THE BEST CAPITAL STOCK—FREIGHT DISCRIMINATION—PROSPECTS FOR NEXT HARVEST—SCHOOLS AND SOCIETY.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

ALBANY, Feb 3, 1875.

The snow is almost gone from the valley, but there is more or less frost every night. During the last few days the sun came out bright and warm. Plowing has been suspended for 25 days, but clearing additional land goes on extensively. The frost makes ducks and other wild fowl tame, and thereby become an easy prey to the sportsman.

THE PRESENT AND PROSPECTIVE CONDITION OF THE FARMERS OF OREGON.

The farmers are more industrious, cultivating the soil better, making more improvements on their dwellings and office houses, adding greatly to their home comforts, more enterprising educating their children better, at the same time studying and practicing economical habits, more by a large per centage than ever known in the history of the State. There is besides, a great deal of substantial wealth among them. Quite a number of them are too much in debt. This is one of their greatest drawbacks, for it places them in the position of a valuable wheel working [illegible] water. To get free of debt and buy and sell on a cash basis, is a practical reform that is more or less essential to the independence of the farming community, and lies at the foundation of the steady and rapid progress of the State in its material social, moral and political developments. To be willing and able to pay bills promptly when due, is one of the luxuries of life, that every farmer and good citizen should anxiously covet and labor earnestly to accomplish. A farmer not far from Tangent came to this State 22 years since quite poor. He secured a donation farm of 160 acres he got a few sheep on shares saved the price of the wool and other earnings until his savings amounted to $500. By unceasing industry strict economy and good habits he soon accumulated $2000. With this amount he purchased an adjoining farm at $5,000. In three years he paid off the balance. Now he has 700 acres of land 3000 bushels of wheat in his barn a fine dwelling house, good office house plenty of cattle and sheep, a good wife a large family and a few thousand dollars at interest. This is what industry economy, enterprise and good habits have done for this farmer, are doing for thousands of other farmers in the State and will do for all the balance if they pursue a similar course. The practical difficulty with young men is to make a beginning to economize. They say to themselves, what is the use of saving a few dollars? but it is saving these few dollars from being expended in folly or unnecessary expense that is the foundation of a future fortune. Nearly all the men who have secured permanent independence and good homes have commenced with small means and good habits.

It is these industrious enterprising economical farmers that are the pillars of the State. Their former isolated action rendered them, in very many cases, the victims of cunning and designing men. Their united action during the past two years is doing much to get rid of the abuses. One by one their grievances are disappearing from the list. Their former experience has been, divided we are conquered, their experience now is, "united we stand."

DISCRIMINATING FREIGHT CHARGES

The warehousemen and farmers in the vicinity of Halsey, Shed and Tangent are indignant at the discriminating freight charges by the railroad company against them and in favor of the farmers who ship at Albany. The freight charge by the Oregon and California railroad from Halsey to Portland is 17 cents a bushel from Shed 16 cents and from Tangent 15 cents while the charge is only 9 cents from Albany, making a difference of six cents a bushel in the six miles that being the distance between Tangent and Albany. There will probably be 150,000 bushels of wheat raised in the neighborhood of Halsey the coming harvest 70,000 bushels at Shedd's, and 150,000 bushels at Tangent. If the railroad company do not reduce the charge on freight to a scale corresponding to the charge at Albany, the farmers are determined to haul their wheat to Albany next fall. This will be a loss of 370,000 bushels of wheat in the freight of the season, equal to $44,400 at an average charge of 12 cents on the bushel. The railroad company will be wise if they give this subject early attention. To be sure the railroad company will get a share of the freight of this wheat at Albany and it may be a large share if the Wallamet river is not improved by that time, or if the river should be long in rising.

Should the price of wheat rise suddenly and early in the season as it did in 1873, then the farmers would sell at their [illegible] point, irrespective of the price of freight. But when wheat is only selling at the places mentioned at 60 cents a bushel, and selling at from 62½ to 65 cents at Albany, in consequence of the low freight charges the farmers will haul their wheat to the latter place. These are the facts and probabilities of the case. The managers of the railroad can calculate their chances and act accordingly. There will be, in all probability, an immense shipment of wheat from Albany next fall. The owners of steamboat lines should take this into consideration, have the river cleared of [illegible] and [illegible] boats drawing little water.

A SABBATH IN ALBANY

The material interests of this town are not more encouraging and cheering than are the social intellectual, moral and religious. The town is remarkably quiet on Sundays and the external observance of the Sabbath equal to any town in the valley. The churches are numerous and well attended. The Sunday schools are conducted in a manner that makes them attractive and profitable. The Union School, lately organized by President Warren and Professor Sox, of the college is a model school for order and efficiency. The monthly Sunday school union meeting on Monday evening was very large, influential and effective. Dr Gray presided. The music was admirable the reading by Miss Geary was excellent. Mr Wolverton read a good essay. Mr Backintos conducted a Bible class that called for a rich treat of instruction, discussion and sparkling wit in which a number of influential friends of the Sabbath school took part. The large number of young people that attend church, Sunday schools lectures and public schools is one of the prominent features of Albany. The college under President Warren assisted by Prof Sox and others, is as popular and successful as ever accomplishing a good work in the cause of education.

A JUST JUDGE

A THRILLING DRAMATIC SCENE IN AN ENGLISH COURT

Just before Christmas there was a truly dramatic scene in an English court at Chester, which will be memorable among the incidents of the bench and bar. The usual solemnities of such tribunals—especially in England—were laid aside and the Judge became the savior of a prisoner and the thronged audience in the court room burst out in enthusiasm.

Mary Lancaster was married to a brute. Her husband lived off her earnings and she worked her fingers to the bone to support him. He was in the habit of beating her severely too, to cement their unhappy union. One day he came home half drunk and commenced his domestic amusements by kicking a joint of meat which was roasting before the fire into the cinders. He then seized his wife by the hair and dragged her around the room, and beat her between whiles.

In desperation the woman picked up a steel and threw it at her husband. The point entered his skull inflicting injuries from which he died. Mary Lancaster was arrested and it was found that her body was covered with bruises some of them of long standing. It was evident she was habitually brutally abused by the man she had killed. She was tried at the Chester [illegible] and the jury found her "guilty of manslaughter." It only remained for the judge to [illegible] her punishment and condemn her in a [illegible]. The Daily Oregonian.

FRIDAY MORNING FEBRUARY 5 1875

WHAT THE SUB-COMMITTEE SAW

Having given our readers the benefit of [illegible]dy else's statements of the facts immediately connected with the farce of organizing the Legislature of Louisiana, we present this morning in another column the Congressional sub-committee's version of it. Every statement published so far differs in some important particular from all others, and it is somewhat difficult to arrive with certainty at the truth. This [illegible] of the sub-committee, never having been telegraphed, has never been published in Oregon, though we have heretofore given our readers the report of the sub-committee so far as it touch the question of election outrages, intimidation, &c, and their conclusions from all the facts. We are glad to be able now to present their report of the proceedings in the House. As they were present were there for the sole purpose of ascertaining the truth, were in no wise personally concerned so as to be biased one way or the other, and are of both political parties, (Messrs Phelps and Foster being Republicans and Mr. Potter a Democrat), it is fair to presume their version is as nearly accurate and as much to be relied upon as any that has been or is likely to be given.

It is very clear from their statement that the so-called conservatives paid no regard to the laws or customs applicable to such a case and defied all the rules of decency [illegible] to control the [illegible] of the House. It is equally clear [illegible] in the premises constitute no [illegible] for military [illegible]ence any more [illegible] of the disorderly [illegible] that have been witnessed in the Oregon Legislature and in the Legislatures of nearly every State in the Union would have justified such [illegible]. Just as Curtis, editor of Harper's Weekly remarks, let the strongest statement be yet put forth against the conduct of the Conservatives, and there is still no possible justification on legal [illegible] for the course pursued by the military, no such as the Constitution describes or contemplates as a ground of military interference with State affairs. The most that can be said is that there was some reason for supposing there might soon be violence on a scale of such magnitude as to defy the State authorities. But [illegible] had not yet taken place and might never take place. The chances were it never would, though as we said there was some reason to suppose it might. To hold it legal to interfere with the [illegible] army on mere surmises without waiting for the development of facts, or the commission of overt acts, would be to place [illegible] government of the Union at the mercy of the military. That [illegible] be the best form of government [illegible] this country, but it is certainly not the form under which we pretend to live, not the form created by the Constitution, not the form to which the American mind has been accustomed. If we are to have a radical change in this respect, let us have it inaugurated fairly and without deception or false pretenses, but if we are to have the style of government given to us by Washington and defended by Lincoln and the whole loyal people, let us have it in all its fullness of liberty and of loyalty to law alone.

But another fact which this sub-committee settles is, that the organization of the House by the Kellogg party after the military intervention, was utterly illegal. There was no quorum answered their roll-call, counting in the two Democrats who voted against Hahn. There could be therefore, no election of Speaker and no legal organization of the House. The truth of what we have said heretofore, become more and more apparent as all the facts comes to light, namely, that every step taken by every party from the fraud of the Returning Board to the last farce of an organization, was a piece of rascality.

THE PILFERAR'S CONTRADICTIONS

The ring organ, in its desperation and "file guaranty [illegible]" [illegible] itself very ridiculous in the eyes of sensible people by trying to curry favor with the farmers, whom [illegible] it lost no opportunity to impose upon and deceive, and as it would take too much space to name all the [illegible] which that graceless sheet has sought to do this, we will only recall to the mind of our readers the fact that during several days over ten in all, during January, just past, at the head of its commercial columns it kept standing this ser[illegible], prominently displayed and leaded, "Wheat in San Francisco quotable at $1 60 per cental," when, during several of those days, no San Francisco quotations, as shown by its own telegrams at the time, were lower than $1 62½, and Oregon wheat [illegible] in that market at $1 70 per cental. We exposed the organ's sha[illegible] trick in that instance and it sneaked around the matter as best it could, and took down its false quotation, put up expressly to deceive the farmers—for our merchants who deal in the cereal are in daily receipt of telegrams from that market, and do not at all depend for information upon the press dispatches.

But to recur to the fraud it attempts to perpetrate upon its readers in yesterday's issue. It says

> This bank ring that owns the OREGONIAN and who as they thought, had got control of the telegraph by [illegible] a secret agent to San Francisco learning that wheat was about to advance takes advantage of their newspaper and their monopoly telegrams to suppress the following very important dispatch in yesterday's [illegible]
> The British Wheat Supply.
> LONDON Feb 2—The Mark Lane Express says late floods and shipwrecks have done great damage. Dry samples of wheat are unusually scarce. The downward tendency is less marked though heavy arrivals prevent a rise in prices.
> That was published in yesterday's Bulletin but it was suppressed in the OREGONIAN. Why was it suppressed in the OREGONIAN? Because it showed the downward tendency of the wheat market had been checked and the facts warranted the belief that it might turn the other way and advance. The bank ring and the wheat ring being in partnership wanted to see the farmers' wheat go on down down so they could buy very low and then sell on the rise.

Now the organ in telling the half dozen falsehoods contained in the above jumps right plump into the fire from its frying pan, for those who take the trouble to look at the commercial columns of both papers of the 3d inst will find that the OREGONIAN says

> Average California wheat ex warehouse is quoted by latest telegrams from Liverpool at 46s 3d per quarter. Oregon ditto 46s 8d.

The whining sheet that has no news but what it gets by sending its sneaking emissaries around the OREGONIAN office and pilfering from our pages, in the same issue gives the following

> Private dispatches received from Liverpool yesterday denote a further decline in the wheat market, and its tendency was still downward. We quote in lots average California ex warehouse at 9s 2d per cental.

Now 9s 2d per cental is equal to 46s 10d per quarter of 500 pounds, whereas our quotations were 46s 3d per quarter for the very same quality of wheat (average California), which the shameless sheet (as the Bulletin is now known among decent people) quotes 5d or about ten cents lower. We only point out this scurvy trick and those who desire to satisfy themselves can see it plainly by comparing the commercial columns of the two papers.

Then who wants the price of wheat to go down and who has suppressed news that might benefit the farmers or any other class? the OREGONIAN, which never received the dispatch about 'floods and ship wrecks,' or the organ of news-pilfering proclivities that under-quotes the San Francisco and Liverpool markets day after day for no other purpose than to induce farmers and holders of wheat to sell at low rates by making them believe that the grain is worth no more abroad than their pretended quotations?

In its 'stone turning" and 'earth pawing,' the organ seems to forget in one paragraph what it has said in the one before, and, in its harmless rage, flounders [illegible], striking, like the blind adder, at anything it may happen to hear or touch. Let the reader try, for instance, to find out from its columns about the dispatches. In one paragraph it "howls" one loud long howl, because as it falsely asserts, the OREGONIAN has a monopoly of telegraphic news, and in the next it boasts that it has "more and better dispatches than the OREGONIAN'S" both its howl and its boast being false, for messages are coming and going to and from hundreds of people, all the time on the wires, of which the OREGONIAN knows nothing and with which it has no business, but for which those who send and receive them pay their money—something the pilfering sheet will not do. The boast is likewise false, because the organ contains no dispatches at all but what it filches without even the rogue's blush, from our columns. Shame! say honorable men who act on business principles, upon such a low mean way of running even an organ for a few greedy office-holders and a few scurvy political tricksters. Shame! say all honest people who freely pay for what they receive. Shame! says every one who despises lies and respects truth and sincerity.

ENCOURAGE MANUFACTORIES

We commend to the candid consideration of this community the communication we publish in regard to the building up of manufactories in the city. The writer is an old citizen of Portland, a large tax payer and a gentleman whose views on all subjects command respect wherever expressed. The ground upon which he urges the encouragement of manufacturing industries, to wit, the saving of the boys of the city from lives of idleness and eventually of vice and crime, is a matter that cannot be too highly appreciated. 'An idle brain is the devil's workshop" says an old saw, and it is but too true, as many a parent can testify with sorrow.

It is presumed the writer of the communication has not considered the proposition to exempt certain manufactories from taxation, from a constitutional point of view. It is submitted that such exemption would be in conflict with that provision which requires all property to be taxed alike, except certain specified classes belonging to churches, literary institutions &c. But there are other ways of encouraging manufactories, and they should not be neglected.

We understand the proprietors of the moribund hand organ down town have got a set back in another quarter. The east side railway, from which in times past the organ was wont to draw supplies of current funds and receive other particular favors, it is said refuses under its present management to give such advantages to the ring organ. The German Bond holders have no use for newspapers, and under their honest management the road is not used for any such illegitimate purpose as it formerly was.

A TERRIBLE STORM

The ship Furene of Liverpool, left North Shields England, on June 11th last with coal for Aden. August 1st heavy weather was encountered, and when the gale had ceased it was discovered that the cargo had taken fire, and on the 9th the crew took to their boats and made for the nearest land, St Helena. Of the fate of two of these boats nothing is known. They were all young men in the third boat, none over thirty—two Englishmen and six foreigners among them an Italian boy named Francis Shufus. For nineteen days they sailed without a sight of a ship or land and their slender stock of provisions was almost exhausted, and at midnight on August 27th the boat capsized, and on righting her they found two of their comrades missing, and the only water barrel that was left filled with salt water. 'On Sunday the 30th ' says one of the crew, hunger and thirst intense, and we commenced to drink salt water one of the men, Muller by name drinking more than the others. On the 31st Muller began to rave and entreat the others to kill and devour him [illegible] his knife upon his throat even with frantic gestures accompanying and that same morning we commenced talking among ourselves that it was time one of us should die for the others. We contrived to make a lottery of pieces of wood of different lengths [illegible] to whom should fall the shortest should die. To this we all agreed and the lot fell on the Italian boy Shufus. I did not notice that the boy's face showed any change he being quiet. We did not know what to do for an hour after. The Italian went down on his knees and prayed. I heard him say the words Ave Maria. Five hours afterward but just five hours too late a ship hove in sight and bore down to the boat and picked up the wretched men but saith the deponent the Dutch captain may have noticed a small piece of the liver and the blood spots in the boat.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Home Manufacturing Company was to have been held in Salem on Tuesday afternoon but no sufficient amount of paid up stock was present to make a quorum and the meeting adjourned without accomplishing anything. The directors have issued another call for the stockholders to meet on the 23d inst.

THE COUP D'ETAT

THE ORGANIZATION OF THE LOUISIANA LEGISLATURE—REPORT OF THE CONGRESSIONAL SUB-COMMITTEE—SHERIDAN'S STATEMENTS FULLY CONFIRMED

The following is all that part of the congressional report which relates to the coup d'etat in New Orleans.

As to the proceedings on the 4th of January about which the committee desired a statement we now add that your sub-committee on the invitation of the Democratic Conservative committee of the State of Louisiana visited the hall of the House of Representatives and witnessed the convening of the Louisiana House of Representatives. Mr Potter refusing to go inside the bar remained outside, while Messrs Foster and Phelps were seated inside and near the speaker's chair. Mr Potter remained only until Wiltz was elected speaker and states nothing as to what subsequently occurred. Mr Foster remained perhaps an hour and Mr Phelps remained about an hour longer until he learned that the military were about to enter under Gov Kellogg's orders.

The doings in the State House on the 4th of January as seen by the committee or subsequently in evidence were substantially as follows. At 12 o'clock noon William Vigers the clerk of the last House, called the assembly to order and proceeded to call the roll of members as made up from the returns of the returning board. This roll contained the names of 106 members classed by Gov Kellogg as fifty three Republicans and fifty three Democrats. But it is claimed that one of the Democrats was not a staunch Democrat.

The Republicans claim that one of their members Mr A G Cousin had been kidnapped, and forcibly taken to a distant parish to prevent his presence at the organization of the House. Your committee were about to investigate this charge when in public session. It was claimed by the Democratic counsel and admitted by the Republican counsel that the arrest was under legal process and by the hands of the sheriff. It was further claimed, and not denied, that the privileges of his office did not shield him from arrest. The charge was embezzlement. The full House would contain 111 members, of which 56 would be a quorum. On the first call of the roll 102 answered to their names. It is claimed by the Republicans and we believe conceded by the Democrats that fifty of those answering to their names were Democrats and fifty two were Republicans.

The instant the clerk finished the roll call several members rose to their feet but the floor was successfully held by Mr Billieu, who said that he nominated L A Wiltz as temporary chairman. The clerk suggested that the legal motion was to elect a speaker. Mr Billieu himself paying no attention to the clerk proceeded hurriedly to put his own motion which was received by loud yeas and followed by loud nays, and declared it carried. Mr Wiltz sprung instantly to the platform took from the clerk the gavel was quickly sworn in by Justice Houston who followed him to the platform and then rapped the House, which during this time, had been in great confusion into a temporary quiet. Mr Wiltz, as temporary chairman administered the oath to the members en masse who rose to receive it. Some member made a motion to elect Mr. Trezevant clerk. Mr Wiltz put the motion, and declared it carried. Trezevant at once came forward and took the clerk's chair. Immediately after and with the same haste, Mr Flood was elected sergeant at arms, and at once whether on motion or not, your committee do not remember a number of assistant sergeants at arms were appointed, who promptly appeared wearing badges on which was printed 'Assistant Sergeant at Arms'. While the above mentioned motions were being put, numbers objected and called for the yeas and nays all of which was disregarded and pronounced out of order by the acting chairman. Col Lowell a Republican, made a point of order that the constitution of the State allowed any two members to call for the yeas and nays on any motion but the temporary chairman decided the point not well taken until a motion for permanent organization was made.

Next a motion to go into election for permanent organization was offered and declared premature. Against this ruling the Republicans protested. A motion to seat the Democrats alleged to have been elected in the four parishes, whose election were referred to the legislature was immediately made and carried. During this stage there was much disorder. The Republican members protested but their protests were disregarded. These gentlemen then appeared and were sworn in. A motion to adjourn was then put and declared lost. Mr Lowell Republican then moved that the House proceed to a permanent organization and that the vote be taken upon the roll of the returning board. This motion was declared lost. Mr Lowell protesting. Mr Matthews Republican then nominated Mr Lowell as temporary chairman and put the motion against great confusion and disorder and declared carried. Mr Lowell declined to serve. The House then proceeded to elect a speaker. The roll was called by Clerk Trezevant who reported 55 votes for Wiltz 2 for Hahn and 1, Mr Wiltz's own, blank. This result was ascertained by the clerk by simply keeping a tally of the members voting as they answered to their names. No roll of members voting was kept neither were tellers ordered or any such other means employed than calling the roll to ascertain the number voting. This vote includes the 5 members who had been sworn in to fill vacancies during this roll call when Mr Hahn's name was called he rose and asked to be excused from voting and to be allowed to state his reasons. Objection was made and then the speaker pro tem asked for unanimous consent to his explanation consent was given and Mr Hahn spoke at some length. After the announcement by the clerk of the vote Mr Wiltz was sworn in as speaker and proceeded to swear in others present so far as they came forward to be sworn. Those thus sworn in were said to number 60 in all made up of 50 Conservatives and 5 Republicans who were returned by the returning board and the 5 Democratic members who had just been admitted. Outside of the bar of the legislative hall in the State house there were a large number of police supported by the Federal troops.

No person was permitted to enter the State house through the orders of Gov Kellogg. Within the bar of the House were permitted only the gentlemen returned by the returning board, and the clerk and sergeant at arms of the former legislature ten persons allowed to the Conservatives as messengers, who suddenly became their assistant sergeants at arms and a few other persons [illegible] was re admitted by courtesy to the floor. Without the bar in the public part of the hall stood the contestants and other persons admitted. They numbered by actual count 127. Besides these the door of the hall was kept by twenty seven Police.

Wiltz maintained control of the Assembly until some time after he was chosen speaker. When the Republicans undertook to withdraw from the hall Mr Wiltz gave instructions to the sergeant at arms not to allow any one to pass out or enter the hall. Then the disturbance without the bar at once increased and pistols were displayed. When at this juncture a Conservative member moved that the speaker be requested to ask Gen de Trobriand to preserve order. A committee was appointed to wait on Gen de Trobriand and request his compliance. Gen de Trobriand soon came to the bar unaccompanied except by one aid whom he left there and then alone approached the speaker. The speaker requested him to ask for order in the lobby. Gen de Trobriand did so and order was then restored. The speaker thanked him in the name of the House for his courtesy and he then withdrew.

The action of the body proceeded for an hour or so without interruption during which time a committee on contested seats was appointed, minor officers appointed and debate had but no message was sent to the Senate or to the Governor notifying them that the House was organized and ready to proceed to business when at length Gen de Trobriand returned and stated he had orders to remove the five members sworn in who had not been returned by the returning board and after the protest and resistance of Mr Wiltz to the persons referred to and after Gen Campbell had been sent for to point them out they were removed by the United States officers. Mr Wiltz then left the chair as Mr Vigers to organize the House began to call the roll made out by the returning board and two Democratic members had answered to their names when Mr Wiltz interrupted the clerk and called upon the conservative members to retire to an anteroom and to leave the hall.

The interruption over Mr Vigers began anew his roll call and obtained only fifty responses but as the two Democratic members had just before answered in the roll call which was interrupted he assumed it right to announce that fifty four members had answered to their names. Those who remained after Mr Wiltz and his friends withdrew elected Hahn Speaker by acclamation and proceeded to the business of the [illegible]. There was no subsequent roll call [illegible] number of those members whose names were returned by the returning board, and who still remained present at the deliberations could be determined.

Your committee have not been able to agree upon any recommendation, but upon the situation in Louisiana as it appeared before us we are all agreed. Jan 14 1875

Bishop Morris.—Concerning this widely known [illegible] Bishop, the Episcopal Register, at Philadelphia, of a recent date, says: "Bishop Morris of Oregon has concluded to remain in the East during the winter months in the interest of his large and extended mission. He needs additional men and money to establish the institutions of the church and to carry the knowledge of the gospel to the people that are scattered far and wide over his field. The most pressing works for which money is needed are the completion and endowment of the Good Samaritan hospital in Portland and the endowment of St. Helen's Hall and of the Bishop Scott Grammar and Divinity school. The latter undertaking was commended to the attention of the [illegible] of the church by the Board of Missions, at its recent session in the following words:

Resolved, That this board cordially approve the [illegible] by the Bishop of Oregon and Washington for the partial permanent endowment of his schools at Portland and that in the judgment of this board partial [illegible] secured for all our educational institutions in the [illegible] in the missionary jurisdictions.

One form of endowment for the Grammar and Divinity school is in the way of a professorship, to be known as 'The Bishop Alonzo Potter Professorship.' This has a beginning of $1,000 which it is hoped can be [illegible] in a few years to $20 000. The general endowment fund of this school is now [illegible] if raised to $20 000 or $30 000, would [illegible] together a sum that, humanly [illegible] would put this institution of Christian [illegible] beyond the vicissitudes that have brought disappointment and failure to so many similar schools."

Chance to Do Good.—Mrs. M C Dillon, writing to the Advocate says: A friend of the [illegible] writes to me from Salem that an [illegible] library is needed in the State's prison for the benefit of the convicts but having no money [illegible] to purchase the [illegible] to rely on a generous and humane [illegible]. I am requested to [illegible] who have about their [illegible] in use—that they will con[illegible] the benefit of the convicts [illegible] lers, geographies, [illegible] and all school books will be [illegible] books may be [illegible] and I will see that they [illegible] proper destination.

[illegible] At the residence of Mrs. [illegible], near Fourth, East Portland, will be held a [illegible] this [illegible] the auspices of the [illegible] of St. David's Parish. A collection will be taken up, which is to form the [illegible] for the relief of the poor of East Portland. The fund will be kept entirely separate and distinct from any money in the hands of the Guild devoted to other purposes and will be judiciously dispensed by the society [illegible] for the object [illegible] mentioned. A [illegible] invitation is extended to all to attend, and [illegible] spending a pleasant evening to [illegible] the poor and needy and give of their [illegible] alleviating their necessity.

No 2, for the past year, was [illegible] at [illegible] last evening at the election, to the position of first assistant. Immediately [illegible] Mr. Hoffman was [illegible] It was [illegible] The [illegible] of the members of the new company.

Did not Reach.—Yesterday morning the steamer [illegible] the river to Kalama, the [illegible] being to push her through, if possible to Astoria or to some point above. The boat reached Kalama in good season and finding the river clear of ice pushed on. Up to a late hour last evening the Sound had not returned to Kalama. It is not improbable that the boat has succeeded in reaching Astoria. Nothing has been heard from the [illegible].

New [illegible] Boat.—Mr. U. B. Scott contemplates building another boat to run in con[illegible] with his pet craft, the Ohio, which has proven a perfect success. He has contracted for [illegible] consisting of two engines with 14-inch cylinder and 6 foot stroke. The boat will be 150 feet in length 35 feet beam, and is calculated to carry 300 tons freight. The contract for building the hull will be awarded next week.

Probably Mad.—We are informed that a large shepherd dog, whose owner resides in the southern portion of the city began to manifest what was thought to be [illegible] symptoms of hydrophobia a few days since. Some alarm [illegible] felt, the [illegible] was locked up [illegible] It was tearing about [illegible] and acting very much as a mad canine. The animal should be killed at once.

U S Engineer Office,
Portland, Feb 3, 1875

To the Honorable Members of the Board of Trade Portland, Oregon:

Gentlemen: The following telegram was received last evening from the chief of engineers, Washington, D C a copy of which is respectfully submitted:

Feb 2 1875—5 25 P M

To Major N Michler Portland Oregon:

A Senate bill proposing to appropriate eighty five thousand dollars for permanent improvement of mouth of Willamette upon plans of Chapman has been referred here for report. Plans are with board of trade in Portland. Examine them and report your views briefly by telegraph and fully by mail.

(Signed) A A HUMPHREYS
Brigadier General and Chief Engineer

Will you be kind enough to allow me to examine the plans in regard to the permanent improvement of the mouth of the Willamette prepared by Mr Chapman, to enable me to make the required report? As soon as possible they will be returned. By sending them by messenger you will very much oblige,

Yours very respectfully
N MICHLER,
Major of Engineers U S A

Mass, January 12 1875

To the State Board of Immigration Portland Oregon: I beg to inclose the printed form of an advertisement regarding the inducements held out in Oregon to new settlers which I propose to have inserted in a number of leading papers in the New England and Northwestern States, without any expense to the Board.

I hope the Board will pardon the taking of this step by me without its formal authorization. In view of the long time required for a single exchange of letters of the rapid approach of spring, the principal migrating season of the year, and of the unobjectionable character of the tenor of the advertisement, I felt justified in assuming the responsibility for immediate publication. Should the Board however disapprove of my course I will stop the advertisement as soon as advised.

Very respectfully
H WILLARD
Commissioner

THE CIRCULAR

mentioned in the above letter reads as follows:

The State of Oregon offers great attraction to those in search of new homes to wit:

Healthy and attractive diversity of surface. Grand scenery.

Mild climate. No excessive cold or oppressive heat. Average temperature summer 67°, winter, 39°. Thunder storms very rare. Hurricanes unknown.

Mortality rather lower than in any other State east or west.

Soil of unsurpassed fertility, especially suited to cereals. No failure of crops in thirty years. Great abundance of fruit. Stock raising very profitable. As a farming country the State is not surpassed by any part of the Union.

Abundance of good and cheap government railroad and private lands.

Variety of timber of exceptional excellence for industrial purposes.

Great mineral resources, especially coal, iron lead gold and silver.

Fine natural water system, vast water power.

Good market for agricultural products, owing to short transportation to the Pacific ocean and direct exportation to all parts of the world. Railroad facilities. Navigable rivers including the great Columbia.

Active commerce. Value of exports in 1874 $10 000 000.

Every advantage enjoyed in civilized countries. Laws liberal. Good schools. Moderate taxes. Only nominal State debt.

Pamphlets, with map and full description of the State, and all needed advice and assistance may be had free of charge, on application to the Eastern office Oregon State Board of Immigration, room No 8, Transcript building, Boston, Mass.

COUNTY COURT—WOODWARD J—COMMISSIONERS, HANSON AND HOLMAN

Wednesday, Feb 5 1875

The report of R Gault, Supervisor of Road District No 2, was read and approved.

COMMUNICATION

The following communication from the citizens of Washington county was read and ordered filed:

To the Honorable County Court of Multnomah county, Oregon. We, the undersigned citizens of Washington county, take this method and opportunity to express to your honorable body our preference for the public road leading from Portland to Washington county known as the Balch Creek Road for the following reasons: We are so situated that the railroad is no benefit to us; the other road leading to Portland is too far south for us without a great deal of extra travel. It is the shortest road, the best grade from this side over the moutain. It accommodates a large grain growing community; it embraces an extent of country from 25 to 30 miles long and from 5 to 15 miles wide, and, furthermore, it is a mail route and embraces the following postoffices: Cedar Mill, West Union, Glencoe, Ellenville and Mountain Dale. If we had a railroad or river transportation we might forbear, but as it is our main outlet we desire your honorable body to assist us to build and repair the above road. For these and other reasons we your petitioners will ever pray.

Fifty eight signatures are attached to the petition.

Sundry bills were audited when the court adjourned.

HALF-FARE TICKETS

Delegates attending the session of the Oregon State Temperance Alliance to be held in Salem on the 17th day of February, will be granted half fare tickets for the round trip on all the steamboat lines on the Wallamet and Columbia rivers and also on the railroads by presenting their credentials at the office where they purchase their tickets.

Every delegate should be very careful to secure his credentials, otherwise he will have to pay full fare.

LETTER FROM ASTORIA.

THE WEATHER—ASTORIA'S PROSPECTS ETC.

Astoria, Feb 1 1875

Availing myself of Corbitt & Macleay's special messenger, Jas W Eaton, who arrived here at 9 P M yesterday morning with special express for ship masters, and starts on his return to-day, I send you a few items. The weather here during the past week has been lovely: moderate winds from E and N E bright sunshiny days, cool frosty nights leaving streets and sidewalks covered with hard frost in the morning which soon disappears whereever the bright rays of the rising sun fall upon it. Astorians thrown entirely upon their own resources seem to enjoy their solitary confinement from the outside world, and like a youth emerging from boyhood into manhood they rejoice to believe they can afford to be cut loose from Mother Portland's apron strings. Had you heard the toasts proposed and responses made at a banquet spread at Arrigoni's complimentary to Capt Massey of the British ship Middlesex and his officers, last evening you and your fathers would have called a meeting to take into consideration the necessity of applying to the Courts for the appointment of a guardian for your pet (?) child Astoria. The impression made upon the mind of your correspondent was that Portland might as well throw up her hand as Astoria intends to go it alone, claiming to have an invincible. (That's the way they express it here: your numerous city subscribers probably know what it means.)

Seriously however our citizens have good reason to congratulate each other on the growth of their town during the past year and everything indicates that the bright prospects they discern in the future will in the course of human events be fully realized.

SHIPPING MATTERS

It was with pardonable pride that a stock holder in the Farmers Dock Company directed the attention of your correspondent to that dock and showed him no less than nine sea going vessels moored and made fast, safe from every contingency of wind and weather. In case your readers might be incredulous in regard to this statement I will give their names:

Br ship Conflict	1 [illegible] tons
" Middlesex	1 101
N B ship Lizzie C Troop	1 426
Br bark Camden	777
Wetterhorn	700
Ger bark Willy Rickmers	854
Am bark Rival	399
Melancthon	[illegible]
Menshikoff	[illegible]
Schooner Dreadnought	161
Total	[illegible]

These are at the Farmers dock. In port we have also the British ship Panay, discharging ballast at Holladay's wharf; barkentine Falkinburg, British ship Euterpe 1 500, arrived yesterday and schooner Mist Lieff. The tug Astoria which brought in the Euterpe yesterday, reported three other vessels in sight, one, a large ship (probably the Sussex) standing off about 35 miles from the bar. These will probably be brought in to day. The Melancthon went to sea this morning, and the Middlesex is ready to sail.

CAPT MASSEY'S RECEPTION

Capt Massey and his officers during their protracted stay in this port of over five months, have gained the esteem and friendship of all. Desirous of expressing their respect and good wishes an impromptu reception was gotten up yesterday evening by our leading citizens, complimentary to Capt Massey and his officers. Arrigoni's rooms were thronged with the fair and brave. After dancing had been indulged in a while, Capt Massey, the guest of the evening, was led by Gen Adair to the banquet prepared in his honor, and about one hundred ladies and gentlemen assisted in doing justice to the feast of good things provided by mine host of the Occident. Your correspondent was present, and has been present on many similar occasions in larger cities and he has to acknowledge that the style and good taste displayed in the arrangements on this occasion was a credit to Astoria and the Astorians. The popping of corks having subsided Gen Adair proposed the health of "our guest" in a very appropriate and eloquent speech which was happily responded to by the captain. After which toast and sentiment became the order of the evening, the nature of which has been already alluded to, until an unblushing typo present remarked that he had been requested by the ladies to remind the gentlemen that a considerable amount of gas was being wasted in the deserted ball room and as the indications were that there would soon be an additional waste in the room they were then occupying he moved they adjourn to the ball room and they moved—and it being then much beyont the twne," home went—my wife and I.

TOWN NOTES

The steamer Dixie Thompson started up the river this morning with passengers for Glen Ella, Brookfield and Eagle Cliff. She will go as far as the ice will let her and then return.

H B. Parker city recorder, has been charged by the city council with keeping false records, tried before Justice Davidson, and bound over to answer before the district court.

Prof Worthington arrested for assault by parent of one of his scholars, is now on trial.

Rev W A Tenney pastor of Congregational church, has resigned his pastorate to effect 31st March.

H

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Firemen's elections all over.

The weather continues quite bracing.

The W R T Co continues a boat on the Astoria route.

Still very cold up the Columbia, as indicated by the dispatches.

Mr Waltz is putting up a large frame building opposite the Pacific wharf.

Many deserving officers were re elected at the fire companies' meetings last night.

The building formerly occupied by George A. Pease, is being moved to Front street near Taylor.

The steamer Ohio will land hereafter at the Pacific wharf. Monday is announced as the day of departure for the upper Wallamet.

The board of delegates hold their last meeting to morrow evening, and the new board convene on Thursday evening of next week.

Rev J Flynn writes to the Advocate from Butte creek that he is holding a protracted meeting at that point with promise of success.

On Tuesday next February 9th the second annual convention of the Oregon State Woman Suffrage Association will commence a three days session in this city.

A stage will be put on the overland route to Vancouver next week leaving East Portland at 7 A M and Vancouver at 1 P M. This will be an accommodation to many who can not travel by the boats.

Chinese New Year has commenced and John is out in his best bib and tucker. Last night all Chinadom was illuminated, while fire crackers were going off by wholesale. Runaways are now in order.

There will be a meeting this evening at the Baptist church. The ordinance of baptism will be administered at the close of the meeting for the benefit of those wishing to unite with the church next Sabbath.

Four neat medals to be presented at the masquerade carnival on Monday evening, are exhibited in Henrichsen's window. The programme is published on second page which should be perused by those intending to take part.

UP THE COLUMBIA.

By the O S N Co's line we learn that the state of the weather east of the mountains is as follows:

[illegible] OF PORTLAND [illegible]

Portland Feb 4 1875

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

Some few weeks since a resolution was introduced at a meeting of the Board of Trade of Portland to the effect that efforts be made to raise the sum of twenty or twenty five thousand dollars as a bonus to be given to some person or company who would start in this city a manufacturing establishment of a kind not now here and maintain the same for ten years that would furnish employment to at least fifty persons. At the last meeting a resolution was also introduced petitioning the mayor and council of this city that in the event of the establishment of such an enterprise as a further inducement that it should be exempted from paying taxes for the period of ten years. Allow me to say that it would be a good thing if both of those resolutions could be carried into effect. The great need of Portland to day as it has been from the foundation of our city, is the establishment of manufactories of the very numerous articles which could be manufactured here as well as at other points and for the importation of which both Portland and Oregon have been drained of their wealth in the circulating medium for years.

It has been indeed a sorry sight that all of us have witnessed here upon the advent of any considerable wave of immigration to our State to observe immediately thereafter the departure of nearly all the persons that had arrived who were skilled in any of the mechanical arts. The farmers who came here could find a home on our rich prairies, but for the artificer without capital there was absolutely no employment and there was no other resource left him but to fold his tent like an Arab and steal silently away from the State. Not only have we witnessed this but within the last year we have been pained to witness the departure from our midst of many mechanics who had resided here for years but who through lack of employment were forced at last to leave the chosen State of their adoption. To prevent the continuance of this untoward state of affairs some radical efforts such as is contemplated in the two resolutions above mentioned should be adopted. It is to the interest of all classes that manufactories should be established here. This assertion needs no argument for its support. The good sense of every citizen will instantly suggest to him the argument therefore. And, therefore, as it is to the interest of all classes that such manufactories should be established is it not incumbent upon us that we should do something towards their establishment. If Portland could raise a subsidy of one hundred thousand dollars towards the building of the westside railroad, which should chiefly benefit the farmers of adjoining counties can it not and should it not raise twenty or twenty five thousand dollars for the establishment of a large manufacturing establishment which would chiefly benefit this city. Although, as I have said, the arguments in support of such aid will suggest themselves to each individual, allow me here to press one of a social and a moral character. We have in this city hundreds of boys for whom no employment can now be found who are growing up in a state of idleness, which is the ever fruitful source from which the hoodlums of the present day spring. Let large manufactories be established here, and these boys instead of growing up a curse and a tax upon us will be given profitable employment and will grow up industrious men and good citizens. Is not the achievement of such a result worthy the liberal contributions of all classes of citizens? In conclusion, Mr Editor, allow me to express the hope that the Board of Trade will adopt both of the above resolutions that efforts will be made to raise such a subsidy and that such efforts will be crowned with success. Respectfully yours,

NEW BOOKS.

The following works have been presented to the Library Association of Portland by the Hon M P Deady:

"The organic and other General Laws of Oregon together with the National Constitution and other public acts and statutes of the United States from 1845 to 1872 compiled and annotated by Matthew P Deady and Lafayette Lane."

The winter is fairly upon us. We must keep warm no matter what the cost. Don't go about like a frozen man but straighten up and boldly enter the establishment of BECK & WALDMAN and ask them to show you those heavy winter goods. They'll do it, and what's more, will not astonish you with big prices because of the cold weather. On the contrary they propose to make their patrons happy by clothing them well and at the same time charging a low price to suit the present times. Don't wait until it is too late but go now.

If you would keep warm buy yourself a big Overcoat, Gloves and last but not least good Underclothing all of which KOHN opposite the National Bank keeps in large quantities. You can be suited without a doubt. In addition to the above he has a fine assortment of Dress Suits, Furnishing Goods. The prices are down—like the thermometer is just now. Don't wait until the winter is over and be in misery but buy now while the prices are down.

Cause of Nervousness

The maladies which above all others cause nervousness are dyspepsia, billiousness and constipation. The great sympathetic nerve which connects the epigastric region with the brain is always injuriously affected if the stomach and bowels are disordered. A permanent derangement of the functions of these organs reacts by sympathy upon the entire nervous system. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in restoring tone and regularity to the digestive apparatus and overcoming constipation permanently remedy the nervous complaints which originate in [illegible] weakness or disturbances. They are the very best [illegible] can be used. By eradicating the exciting causes of nervous weakness they permanently overcome the disability itself. But this is not all. By checking the maladies which cause nervousness they build up anew the system weakened and depleted by nervous disease.

The grangers are to hold a grand council in this city on the 9th inst. Some important matters are on foot, and a full attendance is requested.

Skating on the Columbia is declining although it is kept up by a few. No accidents have happened and the mail carrier crosses the ice without fear.

We are informed that the right of way has been granted for a steam ferry across the river at this place. Those who have the matter in hand propose to put on a ferryboat in a short time.

Ice in the Columbia river is as tight as a brick. There are no indications that it will give way for a week to come and with the present phase of the weather it may not move for a month yet.

The steamer Vancouver is expected to commence running to the mouth of the Wallamet on Friday. There is a large quantity of freight needed and expected here when she commences to run again.

The width of the Columbia river has been measured on the ice, the distance from the government wharf to Switzler's landing being 6 700 feet. This is at an angle of six or seven degrees from directly across the river.

Chaplain Van Horn is engaged in taking testimony under direction of his commanding officer in reference to the Mission claim. As this claim covers a portion of the military reserve the military authorities are directly interested in the matter. As much of the evidence which has already been taken has been lost or secreted the present action becomes necessary.

A few days since a lady of this place was hurriedly set in a frame. It was occasioned by the hook which was holding a large mirror giving way and the mirror striking square on the lady's head, shivering the glass into a thousand fragments. The board back of the glass flew out and left the lady in the frame. She did not stop long however, to see how she would look framed for in the fall the mirror had upset and broken a kerosene lamp, the fluid spreading in all directions and igniting. Things were lively there for a few minutes, but the lady, who is noted for her presence of mind soon smothered the flames and escaped without serious injury.

THE RECENT RAILROAD ACCIDENT IN ENGLAND.

The London Daily Telegraph of December 28th [illegible] the following [illegible] of the terrible railroad accident at Shipton by which thirty-one [illegible] killed outright

"At present the substantial facts, so far as they have been ascertained are very few and lie within [illegible] small compass The train seems to have consisted of

THIRTEEN CARRIAGES FILLED WITH TRAVELERS,

Chiefly of the poorer class, and [illegible] Oxford [illegible] on Thursday morning [illegible] forty minutes overdue [illegible] although [illegible] does not appear to have in any way contributed to the sad [illegible] at the [illegible] of the [illegible] the speed was [illegible] or that there was any attempt to make up lost time. It is also noticed however that the train was drawn by two engines

MOST [illegible] PRACTICE

And one which has been over and over again condemned by the [illegible] to the board of trade, on the grounds among others that it is almost [illegible] one another [illegible] At about [illegible] miles out of Oxford and close to Shipton the line of rails is [illegible] river [illegible] after [illegible] over the Oxford and Birmingham Canal. Both the river and the canal are considerably below the level of the rail [illegible] on each side [illegible] with the other by a steep [illegible] ment The train was [illegible]

[illegible] and [illegible] ments are recog[illegible] point of [illegible] somewhere [illegible] an hole, when the tire [illegible] on the [illegible] to the [illegible] [illegible] way, [illegible] up the ballast and cutting the sleepers in two. Had the train [illegible] with the Westinghouse [illegible] it would have been in the [illegible] of [illegible] to cover almost within its [illegible] length, and so to have averted the [illegible] wholy [illegible] that followed As it was [illegible] with [illegible] and the momentum with [illegible] were going carried them over the embankment along the side of which they was [illegible] considerable distance [illegible] were

In the [illegible] and some fell bodily into the canal. These were literally broken into splinters, while others were tossed this way and that [illegible] falling with their wh[illegible] in the air Indeed, of the thirteen carriages, of which the train was composed [illegible] were only two that did not leave the [illegible] the [illegible] were [illegible] bruised and shaken The scene must have been [illegible] accident [illegible] into Tuesday night and the morning of Christmas day a strong body of men, by the light of large fires made from the debris of the [illegible] carriages, were busily searching amid the snow drifts and the wreck, and [illegible] the cold sullen [illegible] of the canal for the bodies of those believed to be still [illegible]

THE V[illegible] COLUMN.—The Vendome Column [illegible] All that is wanting now is [illegible] but that will have to await [illegible] It would be manifestly [illegible] any other statue on [illegible] than one of [illegible] Moreover, the vote of the [illegible] decided that "the column should be restored to its former state" But it is [illegible] to predict what folly the [illegible] A [illegible] paper [illegible] account of the [illegible] well known to Englishmen, which surmounted the column under the Second Empire [illegible] it was [illegible] in 1815 to be melted down, and [illegible] the statue of Henry IV. The workmen, then Bonapartists, clubbed together to buy bronze to replace [illegible] which was sacred to them and with which they made several red [illegible] the original statue It is [illegible] the ten of these statuettes are to this day in the left leg of the good King Henry. The little Victory, which the Emperor held in his hand, escaped the breaking up, and was discovered some years afterward. In 1832 the statue was replaced, but it was the Emperor as the "Little Corporal" who in singularly bad taste figured on the summit of a column which is an imitation of the pillar of Trajan at Rome. When Napoleon III wished to restore the work of Claudet it was [illegible] to M Dumont, who was fortunate enough to be able to replace the original Victory in Cæsar's hand. After the overthrow of the column by the Communists, all the pieces of the statue were recovered except the Victory. A complete model, however, exists in the artist's studio [illegible] rebuilding of the column began eighteen months ago, and has cost 150,000 [illegible] sum [illegible] for it, besides a supplementary sum for paying seven hundred [illegible] of bronze had to be placed together [illegible] and each plate was made [illegible] had to be replaced, or a leg, or an entire figure So exceptional is this [illegible] of art or manufactures to [illegible] It is not unlikely that the Parisians, delighted at seeing one [illegible] monuments [illegible] almost uninjured, may hasten on the [illegible] of the Tuileries and Hotel de Ville.—London Globe.

THE DANGER OF A POCKET KNIFE.—A singular accident happened at Lawrence, Mass [illegible] year old son of Alonzo Winkley, which resulted in the loss of his right leg. The father had purchased a pocket knife for the boy during the day, and while the lad was cutting a piece of thin wood, which was resting upon the thigh of his right leg, the wood split, and the [illegible] knife was driven into the [illegible] through the femoral artery Physicians stopped the flow of blood with a tourniquet, and after etherizing the patient, [illegible] down to the femoral artery which was elevated and a ligature applied just above the incision All compression was then removed, and the leg moved in [illegible] when venous blood came pouring out, showing that the femoral vein was, like the artery, badly cut More physicians [illegible] and it was decided that the amputation of the leg was the only means of saving the patient's life and it was taken off about one-third of the distance from the knee to the body The patient is doing well and his recovery is anticipated. The injury was similar to that received by the notorious burglar Carroll Sanborn, who was shot through the thigh by an officer The surgeon in charge of the House of Correction at the time called to his assistance eminent surgical talent from Boston, and an attempt was made to ligate the artery, which proved fatal to the prisoner —Boston Transcript

FATE OF A COMMUNARD.—It was pitch dark, for the gas lamps had not been lit that night, but the rays of two lanterns held aloft by men with drawn swords threw a lurid gleam on some hundred bayonets. The pavement on both sides of the way appeared to be covered with soldiers A woman's voice was crying, That is the notorious Colonel Fielot—he has 250,000 francs about him, the fruits of plunder" "It's true" answered Fielot's voice "Let me stand against the wall and make an end of me quickly I have nothing to say." There was an instant's deliberation, then the group opened and shadows seemed to flutter on the wall A clump of men stood out clear in the glow of the lanterns and in the luminous circle [illegible] some dozen barrels uprose Then [illegible] as wild and terrible was enacted, for, just before the report of the rifles rang in the night air, a second shadow rushed forward and blended itself with the first. A struggle ensued, and one shadow [illegible] to [illegible] the other, but suddenly both [illegible] to the earth together, the woman embracing the man and crying, "Oh, Victor, forgive me!" —Cornhill Magazine

[illegible] DIPHTHERIA.—The ravages of diphtheria have been so extensive in Australia within the last few years that the Government offered a large reward for any certain method of cure Among the responses was one by Mr Greathead, who at first kept his method a secret but afterwards communicated it freely It consists solely of sulphuric acid Four drops of which are diluted in three fourths of a tumbler of water, to be administered to an adult at intervals not specified In case of children the dose is smaller The result of this remedy is said to be a coagulation of the diphtheritic membrane, and its ready removal by coughing It is asserted that where the case thus treated has not advanced to the very last stage, the patient recovers in nearly every instance

At a meeting of the directors of the Home Manufacturing Company at Salem on Wednesday morning the Record says an understanding was arrived at that on the deposit of money at the next meeting of the stockholders [illegible] up to this time the company should then be disbanded Any money paid in on stock more than the proportion due from the individual making it toward paying the expenses will be refunded. To make [illegible] stockholders will have to pay the first assessment to entitle them to vote but the Linn county men express a determination to give the rest ample security that the fair thing shall be done to all concerned and no advantage taken

Average California wheat ex warehouse is quoted by latest telegrams from Liverpool at 4s 1d per quarter: Oregon ditto 46s 6d Oregon cargoes for prompt shipment are quotable in Liverpool at 45s per quarter: ditto in Cork 41s The European markets are all reported dull, and cargoes for shipment find slow sale.

Our gold quotations remain as yesterday though private advices from New York quote at 114½—a material advance

In commercial matters but few important transactions are occurring or probable until the opening of the Columbia, an event now even less probable at an early day than it was yesterday The vexatious delay in the movements of sea going vessels very much hampers all branches of trade and makes all classes of business dull

In trade matters there is still a limited activity produced by the small orders that arrive from points accessible to boats or cars The ice blockade has continued until already several lines of staple goods are becoming scarce in this market, and of some a complete depletion is feared unless the river opens even sooner than present prospects indicate that it will We have no material changes in quotations to note but of those articles which are in short supply more firmness is noted and an advance is not unexpected

[illegible] Produce Market.

WHEAT—The market seems to be inclined to a little more life to-day and a few holders are offering lots at 8@10c ℔ cental over what exporters who are in the market are willing to pay Under the circumstances it is impossible to give exact quotations. Three car loads were sold at $1 40 ℔ cental twenty thousand bushels were put into the market at no fixed price for which no one seemed inclined to bid and is still held. So the range of offers may not be more closely defined [illegible] at $1 35@1 40 The San Francisco and Liverpool markets exhibit no [illegible]

FLOUR—The supplies here for shipment are large and increasing and cargo lots could probably be secured on terms rather favorable to the buyer but for such lots there is at present only a dull inquiry Choice brands of extra are still quoted at $4 25@4 50 ℔ bbl outside and country brands 25@50c less superfine $4 62½@3 75

OATS—With the full supplies now in the market dealers are less urgent in securing purchases but our quotations of 50c ℔ bushel sacks included are still maintained

BARLEY—With but a very few transactions quotations are nominally unchanged, feed $1 25@1 30 ℔ 100 lbs choice brewing $1 37½@1 40

FEED—Stocks are ample for the current wants of the trade and prices show no change bran is quotable at $14@15 ℔ ton shorts $20@22 50, middlings chops etc $27 50@30

POTATOES—Receipts are larger and prices firm at 75@80 per bushel

ONIONS—We quote at $1a1 25 per 100 lbs with but little demand and few offers

APPLES—Ripe choice $1@1 25 per box dried in kegs 5a6½c in sacks 4@4½c per lb

BACON—The market is again full with much of the new product and prices show a weaker tendency Sides quotable at 11@12 cents ℔ lb shoulders 7½@8c hams 14a15c.

LARD—In tins, choice lots are quoted at 13a14 cents ℔ lb in kegs 11½a12½c There is but a dull demand

EGGS—Receipts are increasing during the past two days and prices have dropped to 25c ℔ dozen with a prospect of going lower

CHICKENS—Prices ran up to near $5 a dozen the latter part of last week but at present are being quotable at $4@4 50 with a duller demand

TALLOW—We quote at $6 00@6 50 ℔ 100 lbs and in [illegible] demand

HIDES AND FURS. A duller demand for shipping purposes prevails and receipts are light We quote for choice dry 16½c ℔ lb, green salted, 7c green 6½c, culls 10a12c elk 22c ℔ lb deer 18@35c ℔ lb dried and 50a75c apiece green, mink skins each [illegible] 50, otters [illegible] beaver 75c@[illegible]
